

West Virginia Oncology Society Institutional Membership

Healthcare institutions located in West Virginia shall be eligible to become members of the Society upon approval by the Board. Institutional members must support the informational and educational goals of the West Virginia Oncology Society. Each institution shall be able to enroll up to TEN of their staff members who will then receive full society privileges. (Opportunities to enroll additional staff members can be made available by contacting Julie Shroyer, WVOS Executive Director, at Julie@wvos.info or by phone at 304-367-9470.)

The West Virginia Oncology Society (WVOS) is asking for support to achieve our mission. With your support, we will strive to promote excellence in the care of patients afflicted with cancer and hematological disorders.

We will ...

- Be active in the numerous health care issues facing cancer care providers, including reimbursement, practice management, off-label indications for chemotherapy pharmaceuticals and advocacy with managed care companies and policy makers.
- Offer educational seminars and meetings on various topics and trends in cancer care.
- Work closely with other national and state organizations to accomplish our objectives.
- Keep our members informed of the important changes occurring in Medicare with newsletters, frequent reimbursement alerts and upcoming reimbursement meetings. Our website will be available with important news and information and links to other informative sites.
- Work with other national organizations to analyze the impact of the changes on patient care and keep members of Congress informed of those issues.

Membership dues are $1,500.00 annually.

By joining the society you will help us promote excellence in the care of cancer patients.
